who will take part.

Plans for the great carnival have been completed and the programmes announced. Those who have studied the programmes will find that they contain the best classical music, played or sung, as the case may be, by some of the greatest artists.

The list of soloists contains the names of Olive Fremstad, Lucrezia Bori, Ysaye, the violinist; Mme. Ober and Mme. Breslau of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Valentine Crespi, the famous girl violinist, and other brilliant artists. And to-day the name of the other artist will be announced. Music lovers will not be disappointed when they learn the name of

The programme for the Sunday concer of the festival has been selected with par-ticular care. The Sunday concert is the last one of the carnival and Mme. Fremstad is the soloist for that night. There has been a slight change in her programme, but the change will be most pleasing. Mme. Fremstad has substituted "Annie Laurie" for one of her numbers. She will sing two other numbers, "Dich teure Halle" from "Tannhaeuser," and "Vorspiel und Liebestod," also one of Wagner's selectiops.

Another feature of the concert will be the playing of Maximillan Pilear, the view stad is the soloist for that night. There the playing of Maximilian Pilzer, the vio-linist. He will play the prize song of the "Melstersinger."

"Melstersinger."

The orchestral programme for the concert is particularly fine. "Tannhaeuser" has been selected for the overture and it will be noted that the entire first part of the programme is given over to Wagner's music. The second part is of lighter se-lections and will end with the singing of Victor Herbert's "American Fantasie" by the Heinebund Chorus. The chorus will be under the direction of Dr. Anselm Goetzi.

WAR LETTERS TO BE SOLD.

Phone of Lincoln, Davis and Many Generals in Lambert Library.

Announcement was made yesterday of the contents of the third part of the rethe contents of the third part of the remarkable library of the late Major William H. Lambert of Philadelphia, relating exclusively to items concerning the civil war, which will be sold at auction in the Anderson galleries, Madison avenue and Fortieth street, beginning on March 9.

The second part of this library consisted of the Thackeray letters, manuscripts and books, the sale of which, ending yesterday, attracted widespread attention on both sides of the Atlantic. There is still a fourth part of this library to be sold later in the season, consisting to be sold later in the season, consisting of the second half of Major Lambert's extensive and important Lincoln collec-

Major Lambert served with distinction in the civil war and he collected with enthusiasm books, pamphlets and broadsides published in the North and South together with rare Confederate imprints but the chief interest in his library will be found no doubt to lie in the series. One of the greatest surprises of the great Carnival of Music which opens in Madison Square Garden next Tuesday night will be announced in This Evening.

Sun to-day. Another brilliant soloist has been added to the stars of the music world.

But the chief interest in his library will be found no doubt to lie in the series of autograph letters written by Abraham Lincoln, Jefferson Davis, Gen. Grant and Gen. Lee, and other letters written in some instances on the field by Generals on either side, including Sherman, Scott, Sheridan, Rose-cluding Sherman, Beauregard, Bragg, Breckenridge, Hooker, Stonewall, Jackson, Albert Sid. Hooker, Stonewall Jackson, Albert Sid-ney Johnson, Longstreet and Meade. Among Gen. Sherman's letters is the one to Gen. Grant announcing the capture of Savannah December 22, 1864:

"I take great satisfaction in reporting that we are in possession of Savannah and all its forts • Our troops entered at daylight yesterday, took about string of forts from Savannah around to

There is also the original manuscript from which the book of Gen. Sherman's memoirs was put in type, which Sherman changed when he read the proofs.

Gen. Grant's letters are terse and characteristic. Among them are these, spurring Gen. Thomas to action:

Fort McAlister.

"Tooks to me evident the enemy are trying to cross the Cumberland River and are scattered. Why not attack at once? By all means avoid the contingency of a footrace to see which, you or Hood, can beat to the Ohlo," &c. "December 9, 1864.

"I have as much confidence in your conducting a battle rightly as I have in any other officer. But it has seemed to me that you have been slow and I have no explanation of affairs to convince you

"Decamber 11, 1864.

"If you delay attack longer the mortifying spectacle will be witnessed of a rebel army moving for the Ohio River and you will be forced to act, accepting such weather as you find. Let there be no further delay. Hood cannot stand even a drawn battle," &c.

Among the other important features of the sale are the autograph manuscript of "O Captain, My Captain," signed by Wait Whitman; a three page letter of Harriet Beecher Stowe, and the life of Major-Gen. G. H. Thomas, with a large
